THUMMEL

Alte seit Anfang des XV Jahrhunderts Landsässige Bürgerfamilien ans Leipzig, früher auch Thommel genannt, die aber seit Mitte des XVII Jahrhunderts dem Adel beigezählt wird. Die Abstammung von einer polischen Familie Timelowsky, welche sich 1370 im Meissnischen niedergelassen haben soll, ist ganzlich unerwiesen.

Wappen; in R. zwischen zwei #Sternen ein s.Hammer. Auf dem Helm derselbe zwischen offenem r.Fluge, jederseits mit einem # Sterne bellet. Decken #r.

Bem; heir durfte in den Farben ein bedeutendes Missverhältniss eingeschilichen und das Feld wol ursprünglich Gold gewesen sein.

Is an old civil family of Leipzig, settled in the country since the beginning of the 15th century. Its former name was "Thommel," raised to the peerage about the middle of the 17th century. Whether Thommels are descendants from a Polish family of the name of Timelowsky who, in 1370, is said to have settled in the district of Meissen, is not quite sure.

Escutcheon: On a red background there is placed, between two stars, a black hammer which is to be seen on the helmet as well. Each side is provided with one star.

Background: Red.

Remark: A considerable disproportion must have crept in, so far as the colors are concerned. The background must primarily have been kept in Gold.

(Seibmachers Wappenbach)

Is still a flourishing old noble family of the Saxonland, that in the 17th and 18th centuries passingly held a landed property in the present province of Saxon, in particular at Hemsendorf and Denna.

Through generations, Captain of Horse Wolf Von Thum and descendants had been in possession of the manor, Hemsendorf, up to the beginning of the last century.

In 1599 Georg Von Thum was an owner of the manor, Volkstedt, in the district of Mansfield. He was married to Maria Von Plotz.

Escutcheon: Red with a white hammer, the green handle of which is placed between two white stars.

Helmet: The hammer is in the middle of the red field, both sides of which are provided with one white star.

Background: Red and White.

(Linens are all monogrammed in red and white which are the family colors.)

The family "Thummel" goes bak to 1350. The stars and the wings on the coat-of-arms were given to the family by the Emperor Maximilian. The hammer was given by the king of Poland because a Thummel put a shoe on the king's horse. A hammer of a certain type being called a "Thummel."

The family estate at Schoenfeld near Leipzig was destroyed in the Seven Years War under Frederic the Great, one branch went to Hessen, one to Pausnitz, and one came to Noebenitz and married the lady who owned this estate, family name Kirchner and Trach, the great grandmother of this present Baron Von Thummel. The family colors are red and white.

This estate or "gut" is 300 acres. There are two brothers living; one on the gut has two girls, the other is unmarried in Dresden. All the branches are extinct, only this one.

In St. Thomas Church in Leipzig is a glass window containing the Thummel coat-of-arms.

(From notes taken by Kate Thummel Fisher July 26, 1909 on a visit to Baron Thummel in Noebenitz, Saxe Altenburg.)

The following item of interest appeared in the Scientific American, October 10, 1896:

BURIED IN A TREE

One of the most curious mausoleums in the world was discovered the other day in an orchard in the village of Noebdenita in Saxe Altenburg. A gigantic oak tree, which storm had robbed of its crown, was up for public auction. Among the bidders happened to be Baron Von Thummel, scion of a family of ancient lineage that has given the world of literature one charming poet and the fatherland many distinguished statesmen. The Baron, who lives on a neighboring estate, had ridden to the auction quite accidentally. Finally the tree was knocked down to him for 200 marks. Upon his arrival at the castle he told an old servant of his purchase, describing the tree and its situation. The old servant said he remembered attending the funeral of a Baron Thummel seventy or eighty years ago, and that the body had been buried in a thousand year old oak belonging to the parsonage. Investigation clearly proved that the orchard had once been the property of the Village church and that on one side of the old oak was an iron shutter, rusty and time-worn, that the people of the town had always supposed had been placed there by some joker or mischievous boys. The iron shutter proved to be the gate to the mausoleum of Baron Hans Wilhelm von Thummel, at one time minister of state of Saxe-Altenburg, who died in 1824, and wished to be buried "in the thousand year old tree he loved so well." In the hollow of the tree Baron Hans caused to be built a sepulcher of solid masonry large enough to accommodate his coffin. The coffin was placed there, as the church records show, on March 3, 1824, and the opening was closed by an iron gate. In the course of time a wall of wood grew over the opening, which had been enlarged to admit the coffin and the workmen, and for many years it had been completely shut, thus removing the last vestige of the odd use to which the old tree had been put. The tree has still some life in it and its rich verdure is only now turning a violet tint. The coffin in which Baron Hans reposes has on one side grown to the tree, the dead and the live wood joining in eternal embrace.

The tree was alive in 1909 when Mrs. Fisher visited there when she brought back some leaves which are still preserved.

* * * * *

No effort has been made to trace the family beyond the records available within the family; the principal information is based on a memorandum written in 1879 by the Rev. Christian Bernard Thummel.

1. AUGUST ANDREAS THUMMEL. Born in the Duchy of Saxe-Altenburg, not far from the city of Altenburg. As a ship surgeon, he served for many years in the Navy and in commercial vessels of Holland. After his marriage, he chose the city of Jever, then a principality in Germany, but later incorporated within the Grand Duchy of Oldenburg, for his residence and was there engaged until his death in the practice of his profession as a surgeon. In 1742 he acquired the right of citizenship in Jever, and in Oldenburg the right to practice as a surgeon. He died in Jever in 1812 at the age of nearly 80 years. Married Marie Warner of Lehr and had five children.

2. JOHANN AUGUST. b. Feb 1742; d. 1798 in Jever, unmarried, where he had been clerk of the court.

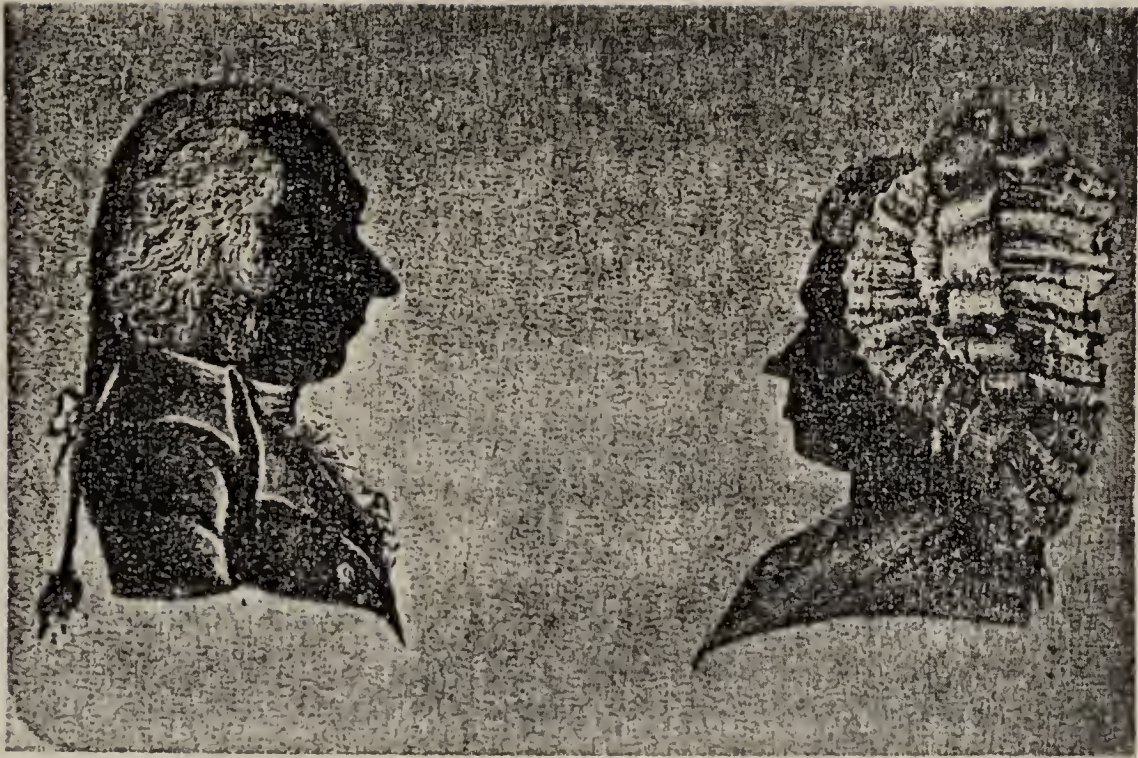

3. BERNARD. b. Jan 22, 1745; d. 1804; physician and surgeon; married Dede Warner; no children; his wife survived him one year.

4. GEORGE ANDREAS. b. Nov 24, 1753; d. 1829; merchant and alderman in Jever; married Feb 23, 1795, Johanna Ulrica Jansen; she d. 1841; had 4 children, 3 sons, 1 daughter.

5. GERHARDT WILHELM. b. Sep 4, 1756; d. Oct 23, 1826.

6. MARY. b. Jever; d. between 1830 and 1840; married a Mr. Wilms, a clerk of the court, who being dissipated d. about 1815 leaving four children, 3 daughters and 1 son.

5. GERHARDT WILHELM THUMMEL. b. Sep 4, 1756 in Jever; d. Oct 23, 1826. He was a merchant in Jever and lived in the New or Jeu Street. Married 1795, Margareta Christina Meyrn (Meyer), b. May 14, 1766; d. 1840; daughter of Herbert Anton Meyer, a native of Westphalia, but resident of Leur on the Ems in East Friesland (formerly of the kingdom of Hanover but in 1866 attached to Prussia), he was a merchant, with two children, a son George Christian Meyer and a daughter. His wife died in 1766. They had 4 children.

7. ANTON AUGUST. b. May 17, 1796; d. Aug 1877.
8. SARA MARIA. b. Dec 28, 1797 in Jever; m. 1825 Albert Mayer, a merchant in Bremen; 4 children, all girls; in 1848 emigrated to San Francisco, Calif., where they resided for several years and where two girls married; and then moved back to Bremen where she died.
9. CHRISTIAN BERNARD. b. Apr 5, 1802; d. May 24, 1881.
10. HEINRICH ANDREAS. b. June 16, 1804; d. about 1870 in Jever. Married and lived with his mother until her death, keeping a crockery store; widow d. 1877.
7. ANTON AUGUST (ANTHONY AUGUSTUS) THUMMEL. b. May 17, 1796, Jever; d. Aug 1877, Marshalltown, Iowa; m. 1819, Helen Christine Klosterman, daughter of Senator (Alderman) Klosterman of Hesson Oldendorf. He chose to become a merchant and was, as a youth, apprenticed to several merchants in the cities of Emden and Leer in East Friesland and in Bremen. He attended his father's store for a time and in 1819 established himself as a merchant in the grocery line in the Schlact Strasse in the suburbs of Jever. Resided in Jever until 1835, when, having failed in business, they emigrated to America with their eight children. They went first to Clinton, New York, where his brother Christian Bernard was then living and in the spring moved west to Illinois and settled in the town of Palmyra, near Dixon, Lee County, on a farm where he lived until his children grew up. They resided in Dixon for a time and later moved to Iowa where they lived with a daughter. Both died in 1877.

9. CHRISTIAN BERNARD THUMMEL. b. Apr 5, 1802, Jever; d. May 24, 1831 in Prairieville, Ill.

The following memorandum was written Aug. 19, 1879:

I, C. B. Thummel, was born in the city of Jever April 5, 1802, rather sickly and of puny stature, so much so that I took but little delight in our outdoor exercises and the rough sports of boyhood. Hence I was early sent to school in our neighborhood where, if I did not learn much, I was well taken care of by the good old dames that kept the school. After having attended the district school, at 7 years of age, though small, I was entered in the fourth class of the gymnasium in my native city, then more modestly called Latin School. * When I was fifteen years old I was promoted into the first class of our gymnasium to attend there the usual three years course and then to visit a university to prepare for the ministry, in accordance with my own and my father's wishes. Accordingly at Easter 1820, I bade adieu to the gymnasium, having delivered my farewell speech in the Latin language at the public exhibition of the gymnasium, as it was customary there. My friend, Ibo Fred-eric Muller, who left the gymnasium at the same time and who likewise had chosen theology as his profession, with me had concluded to attend the university at Halle on the Sade, in Prussic Saxony, and accordingly we repaired there at the beginning of the half years course of lectures in 1820. There in Halle we found an old friend, Francis Jacob Muller of East Friesland, who had visited the first class in our gymnasium in Jever and had been already one year in Halle. In him we found a faithful friend and judicious counsellor, who advised us in regard to our studies and other affairs, as we were both altogether un-acquainted with our new life, its duties and surroundings. In Halle, I spent two years at the university, studying the different branches of theology and philosophy, and likewise attending to philology, and passed the time very agreeably and profitably, making likewise during one of the vacations with my friend I. B. Muller and some others a journey on foot to Leipsig, Dresden, and the mountains and very romantic parts of Saxony up toward Bohemia called Saxon Switzerland, visited Gothenburg and with father's relations. In the spring of 1822 friend Muller and myself with the consent of our parents, left Halle and entered the University at Tubbingen in Wurtemberg, where we spent one and one half years, and meanwhile travelled, during vacation, through Switzerland and the northern part of Italy, returning by way of the Tyrolese mountains and Bavaria, visiting the cities of Munich, Augsburg and Nuremburg in Bavaria, Milan and Verona in Italy, Bern, Zurich and Luzerne in Switzerland and Iamsbreach in the Tyrol, being fully eight weeks on the journey. Late in the fall of 1823 friend Muller and I left Tubbingen and university life and surroundings and travelled toward our paternal homes, leisurely on foot, accompanied by our two poodle dogs. On this trip we stopped at Heidelberg for several days, visited Strasburg on the Rhine, and journeyed down the Rhine, now floating on the water and again travelling on foot on the right or left banks of it, stopping at all of the places of interest or note on either shore, Coblenz and the strong fortress of Ehrenbreitstein, Worms, and down the Rhine to the ancient city of Cologne with its celebrated dome and cathedral, visiting the university of Bonn, then entering the Duchy of Berg belonging to Prussia, we stopped at Elberfeld, that famous city of manufactories of all kinds, and the Wupperthal or valley of the Wupper, where one manufacturing village joins the other, that for miles and miles appear like one city as you travel constantly between houses and factories of various kind, especially of iron and steel. Thus progressing we entered Westphalia where we stopped several days in various cities and villages, visiting former university friends who had left Halle or Tubbingen and were residing there. Bidefeld, famous for its linen factories, was the last place in Westphalia we thus visited. Then we passed through Prussian Minden, which is a strongly fortified city, and so reaching Bremen, that large commercial city, not very far from home, where we tarried one day, and then by way of Oldenburg reached our native city of Jever late one evening in the month of Dec. 1823 a couple of weeks before Christmas. Found all my parents and brothers and sisters and friends well and was really glad to be home again after an absence of nearly four years. Early in the spring of 1824 we underwent our examination as candidates for the ministry before the superintendent of our diocese of Jever, Rev. Mr. Buhage, and were admitted as such candidates and preached both on Easter and Whitsunday in the large Lutheran church of Jever. So far all had gone on nicely and we were both looking forward to soon obtaining places as pastors or preachers in some gymnasium at Jever. But a day after Whitsunday an unexpected war broke over our devoted heads. We were suspected of being members of a political club or association while at Tubbingen and by order of the court at Main were put into confinement for two days at our homes and interrogated about it by a member of one of the supreme courts, who came expressly from Oldenburg for that purpose. Though we confessed nothing particularly, our papers were looked into and some of them taken away, especially our albums and in a few days the orders were sent from Oldenburg, that, to avoid imprisonment, our fathers had to give bail for us, each in the amount of 2000 thalers that we would not leave our province of four German square miles and would present ourselves for investigation whenever required. The bail was given and we were thus outwardly free within certain very circumscribed limits but could not now expect a place in the ministry till this affair was cleared up. Thus we waited and hoped for two years, during which we had to appear about five or six times in Oldenburg before a committee of inquiry; but though we supplicated the Grand Duke of Oldenburg probably every six months to make an end of the affair, nothing came of it, as the Grand Duke being ruler of a small Duchy, though favorable to us, did not dare to act according to his wishes and contrary to the will of Fred William III, then King of Prussia. Finally some lawyers at home interested in our case, advised that our fathers should send a supplication to the Grand Duke representing to him our lot and that the best years of our lives were thus spent in comparative idleness without being of use to the state or the church. This advice was followed and soon the answer came back that as our affairs thus far had been in the hands of a special committee who could not lawfully pass judgement upon us it was soon to be tried by our provisional court in Jever, as a criminal offense, but at the same time the Grand Duke sent one of his counsellors to Jever, to advise us secretly, that we should leave the state, as the Grand Duke did not wish to be troubled with the business. And as the first article in the criminal code demanded the incarceration of all criminal offenders, we did not hesitate long, hardly one or two days, and to make the most necessary arrangements for leaving. On a Sunday early in May 1826 a friend communicated this news to me, and on Monday evening following I was on my way to Amsterdam to sail for the United States of America. My friend Muller had concluded to go to England by way of Amsterdam and so we met unexpectedly at Delph in Holland and from there travelled together by coach and land to Amsterdam. Here Muller left me the next day for England, but I had to wait nearly a week before a vessel sailed for the United States. Finally the ship Columbus belonging to Philadelphia, received me on board for Philadelphia, which we reached after a long but rather pleasant voyage of 70 days, on the 19th of August 1826, *. In this strange country but partially versed in the English language, without a friend or acquaintance in the whole land, I, a young man of 24 years had arrived to earn my bread and to seek my fortune. My prospects were indeed not very flattering, but I was young and full of hope; the bustle and activity of New York encouraged me and a good friend in Jever, a Dr. Triarks, who interested himself much in friend Muller and myself and was well known in and acquainted with the United States and Canada, having been the English Commissioner to settle the boundary between the British possessions in America and the United States and as such had repeatedly visited America, spending many months there at a time, had given me letters of introduction and recommendation to some of his friends, Lutheran clergymen and others in New York. From Philadelphia I went to New York, and on delivering one of these letters to a Mr. John J. Rickers, from East Friesland, who kept a music store and piano factory in New York who received me very kindly. I was very agreeably surprised to find in Mr. Ricker's store a former university acquaintance, a Mr. Charles Kahl of Dormstad, Germany, who had a book store in New York adjoining Mr. Ricker's store in Broadway. Mr. Kahl was very glad to see me and told me of two other university friends in Jamaica on Long Island. These I soon visited and found them very busily engaged in learning the English language and trying to pronounce correctly and trying it so hard that I laughed at them and declared that if that were the way to learn English I would never accomplish it and that I was going to try the way of talking English to the people I met and thus learn to speak it correctly. This I did and succeeded so well that in one year from that time I could use the English language with considerable facility, and even preach in it after a fashion. My previous knowledge of the German, French, Latin and Greek languages assisted me materially in this, since the English is more or less a compound of all these. Within a month or two after my arrival in America, I had the pleasure of receiving there two of my Tübingen friends, Messts. Esnespatock and Lehman from Westphalia, who as Prussians had been under the same suspicion of having belonged to a secret political league at the University and had been imprisoned in the castle of Kespenick near Berlin, and had finally been condemned to ten or eleven years confinement in the fortress of Leulick on the Rhine. Thence they had escaped by flight on a dark rainy night and being near the border of Holland had successfully made their way to England, and thence to America, being secretly favored by the military authorities at Jeulick and furnished with recommendations from Dr. Triarks whom they met in London where friend Muller lived as a tutor in a German family and introduced them to Dr. Triarks. Our prospects began to brighten at all events the sense of loneliness in a strange land gradually disappeared, and that likewise because our acquaintance with German men and families gradually increased. Ernespatock and I boarded at Mr. Ricken's with Lehman in a boarding house kept by an old soldier of Napoleon's, a general, Count Ducondray Holstein. We remained in New York until the month of December 1826, but boarding and lodging there being too expensive for our slender means, at the advice of Dr. F. S. Schaeffer, pastor of the English Lutheran Church in New York, we journeyed to Hartwick Seminary, Otsego County, New York, where a German was principal and professor of the Lutheran Seminary. By him and his excellent lady (they had no children) we were received and welcomed in the most friendly manner and soon established ourselves in the boarding house there for the winter at $1.75 per week. The winter proved to be a cold one with much snow, and upon waking up in the morning we often found our pillows partially covered with snow, having been blown in through the poorly secured windows. Hearing, while there, nothing but English spoken for the German professor, Rev. Dr. E. L. Hazelius, a very good friend of mine until his death, most judiciously told us the day after our arrival there, that since we had come there to study the English language and must learn it, he could not and would not converse with us except in English and he kept faithfully to his word and so helped us a great deal. Thus we continued until the spring of 1827 when Ernespatock, being German Reformed went to Pennsylvania to join said denomination, Lehman and myself went to near Rhinebeck on the Hudson River to visit Rev. Dr. Wackerhagen, a German from Hanover, Germany, who was pastor there and president of the Lutheran Ministerium in New York and adjacent states. By him we were examined in most of the branches of theology and admitted as candidates of the ministerium. Lehman remained till fall at Rhinebeck to assist the Rev. _____ a very aged Lutheran clergyman there, and I returned to Hartwick Seminary, and was soon after in Dr. Hazelius' conveyance carried some 25 miles to O _____, a German settlement on the Mohawk River and by him introduced to them as a missionary to preach to them in German and English. The missionary society of the New York Ministerium allowed me $30 a month for my services and the Germans were to make up the balance. I remained with them till fall but not being able to converse with them in their Pennsylvania or Mohawk Dutch, and the people not understanding fully my preaching to them in the pure German, we thought it best for me to leave, they paying me some $50 for my services. Meanwhile I had become acquainted with and visited several Lutheran ministers in that region of country and preached for them, and on the whole my time was occupied and spent agreeably.

I was professor in Hartwick Seminary when I married Miss Elizabeth M. Cox April 21, 1831. Afterwards resigned this position and went to Clinton, New York, as principal of Clinton Liberal Institute. There my wife died Dec. 15, 1835.

In 1837, May 17, I married Catherine (Davisson) Lattin and was still principal. Afterward went to South Carolina on the Waccaman River to open a private school for planters' children. Was there two years, then went to Lexington, S.C., as a teacher where I remained five years. (Dr. Hazelius lived there.) Came north to New Philadelphia, Ohio where we remained one year and in 1845 came to Illinois and bought the farm where we lived until the spring of 1869, when we moved to Prairieville. Wurtemburg College in Ohio conferred the degree of D.D.

Was admitted as a citizen of the U.S. in New York City on Sep 19, 1834.

"Extract from the History of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of South Carolina, 1824-1924"

Rev. C. B. Thummel of Wadmalaw Island was chosen as head of said Classical School being the school in connection with the Theological Seminary at Lexington, Village, S.C., which position he accepted and became a member of this Synod at the convention of 1841. Subsequently he supplied the place of Dr. Hazelius in the Seminary from April to October 1841. ---- A special resolution of thanks was adopted with reference to the able and satisfactory manner in which Rev. C. B. Thummel had presided over the institution during the absence of Dr. Hazelius. * On page 180 is given the names of the pastors of St. Stephens Church, Lexington, and among them are E. L. Hazelius, D.D. * C. B. Thummel.

May 14, 1851, the Northern Illinois Synod of the Lutheran Church was founded at his home near Prairieville.
